Did you know that God changes God's mind all over the place in scripture? Ironically it usually happens when God is set on destroying people for their sinfulness and carelessness of those in need. Usually someone or something intervenes that helps people return to the heart of God and so God changes God's mind. Perhaps the most classic case of this is in Jonah chapter three, where after preaching to the Ninevites, they change their ways and God decides to not destroy them anymore.

You know it's okay to change your mind, right? It's okay to think about something from the other perspective and change your own. It's not too late to find what brings you joy. You're not too old to do that job. It's not too late for love. It's not too late to work toward your dream. So often we get "stuck" and think that our way is the best way or the only way when in reality, after learning more, we might change perspective or shift course.

There's a lot to learn. There are so many ways we could do better. There is more quality of life out there to be had. Change, whether in your mind or in physical life, doesn't have to be a threat. Change can also be an invitation.

We continue to closely watch the numbers and encourage safe practices so that together, we can share in in-person worship soon.
